1.0 Background

As Public Authorities and data controllers, the FE Sector is legally obliged to comply with both the Data Protection Act (1998) and the Freedom of Information Act (2000).

The FE Sector has collaborated on the development of a single Retention and Disposal Schedule for all the Colleges. The creation of the document has been supervised by the Public Record Office for Northern Ireland (PRONI).

The purpose of this Retention and Disposal Schedule (the Schedule) is to manage the life of records from their creation to their completion. The Retention and Disposal Schedule will identify records of historical value and determine whether they are to be preserved as archives, either by the Colleges or PRONI and records which are to be destroyed. It provides guidance on retention of the records which are generated by the Colleges in the course of carrying out their functions and managing the Colleges as corporate bodies.

The FE College Sector (NI) Retention and Disposal Schedule was approved by the Northern Ireland Assembly and became operational on 27th January 2015.

This SOP has been developed to assist staff in disposing of records in line with the Schedule (Appendix 1).

2.0 Scope

These procedures and the Retention and Disposal Schedule apply to all staff.

3.0 Definitions

Record

A record is recorded information, in any form, created or received by the College or individual members of staff to support and show evidence of College activities. For the purpose of the Schedule, records are defined as:

'Information captured in a reproducible format, including paper, e-mail and other documents in computer systems.'

Some information (e.g. ephemeral material, reference material and convenience copy) is not covered by the Schedule and may be destroyed. A list of what is and what is not covered can be found here in the Appendix.

Disposal

Disposal refers to the process whereby records are appraised for either destruction or permanent retention.

4.0 Procedure

The Retention and Disposal Schedule at Appendix 1 sets out:

- Four broad categories of retention/disposal
  - Permanent Retention by the College (R)
  - Destroy (D)
  - Transfer (T)
  - Public Record Office Permanent Preservation (RP)
- Retention periods
- Destruction procedures
- Content of the Schedule (arranged first by function and then by activity)
- Roles and Responsibilities
- Glossary of Terms

Staff should read the Schedule and refer to the tables which clearly state the retention periods and final action for individual records.

Electronic Documents

The principles governing the retention of electronic documents are the same as those for paper records. In support of these principles, it is important that electronic folders should be organised in a similar way as paper records. In addition, ephemeral electronic documents of no enduring value, such as those of purely personal relevance, should be deleted from the system at the earliest opportunity.

Retention Periods

Retention periods are based upon the specific business needs of the Colleges in addition to the regulatory environment within which the College operates. The retention period for each type of file is calculated from the point the file is closed.

Destruction

Destruction of documents should be carried out in accordance with the timeframes laid out in the Schedule below. In addition, the Confidential Waste SOP will provide staff with guidelines on how personal/confidential data should be disposed of.

Should staff require further clarification, they should contact the Records Manager directly.

5.0 Communication Plan

This procedure will be available for staff on the College Intranet.

6.0 Review

This SOP will be reviewed biannually or sooner to reflect changes in legislation or circumstance

INTRODUCTION

Further Education (FE) Colleges are the main providers of vocational and technical education and training in Northern Ireland (NI). The nature of College provision is diverse and broad based ranging from A Levels and GCSEs to BTECs, HNCs, HNDs, Apprenticeships, Foundation Degrees, Degrees and other specific training programmes. The FE Sector plays a central role in raising levels of literacy and numeracy, and in up-skilling and re-skilling the population through a broad range of courses leading to qualifications, particularly at Levels 2 and 3.

There are 6 FE Colleges within Northern Ireland; Belfast Metropolitan College (BMC), Northern Regional College (NRC), North West Regional College (NWRC), South Eastern Regional College (SERC), South West College (SWC) and Southern Regional College (SRC).

The Colleges have over 150,000 enrolments across their 40 campuses and 400 community outreach venues per year. The Colleges support 4,100 expert lecturers and professional staff. Colleges make an important contribution to social cohesion in the community, through the integrated approach taken to the delivery of the Entitlement Framework provision. Evidencing the success of creative and collaborative partnerships across the schools through Area Learning Communities. Increasingly the Colleges are working directly with organisations in the private, public and community sectors to improve their performance and currently work with over 7,500 businesses across NI.

PURPOSE OF THE RETENTION AND DISPOSAL SCHEDULE

As Public Authorities and data controllers, the FE Sector is legally obliged to comply with both the Data Protection Act (1998) and the Freedom of Information Act (2000). The main principle behind both Acts is the public 'right to know'. This may be either in relation to their own personal information or that of the organisation therefore it is critical that the FE Sector manages its records in line with either statutory guidance or business need. The above mentioned Acts are enforced by the Information Commissioners Office and promote transparency and accountability of the authority.

The FE Sector has collaborated on the development of a single Retention and Disposal Schedule for all the Colleges. The creation of the document has been supervised by the Public Record Office for Northern Ireland (PRONI). The purpose of this Retention and Disposal Schedule is to manage the life of records from their creation to their completion. The Retention and Disposal Schedule will identify records of historical value and determine whether they are to be preserved as archives, either by the Colleges or PRONI and records which are to be destroyed. It provides guidance on retention of the records which are generated by the Colleges in the course of carrying out their functions and managing the Colleges as corporate bodies.

The retention of unnecessary paper and electronic records consumes staff time and utilises space and equipment. Records management is ultimately a matter of risk management, and the Colleges must determine their own position on managing the risks associated with the retention and disposal of records. Decisions to preserve or destroy records may be informed by professional legal advice within the relevant departments, and should be authorised by appropriate officers who can commit the College to the potential consequences of the decisions.

WHAT IS COVERED BY THIS RETENTION AND DISPOSAL SCHEDULE?

This schedule identifies the retention and disposal arrangements for all records created by Northern Ireland FE Colleges. A record is recorded information, in any form, created or received by the Colleges or individual members of staff to support and show evidence of College activities. For the purpose of this Retention and Disposal Schedule, records are defined as:

'Information captured in a reproducible format, including paper, e-mail and other documents in computer systems.'

The following information (e.g. ephemeral material, reference material and convenience copy) is not covered by the Retention and Disposal Schedule and includes:

- Rough or early drafts where these do not contain evidence of policy development;
- Circulated copies of drafts; unaltered drafts;
- Convenience copies or information retained for reference purposes only (it is not retained to provide evidence of transactions, but only for its information value);
- Reference or published materials from external sources which are not needed for record purposes, e.g. papers from conferences or seminars, policy briefings, sales catalogues, brochures, “junk-mail”;
- CC'd e-mails;
- E-mails that are not the primary record of decisions or transactions (e.g. the information is recorded in some other way either prior to or following the e-mail);
- Personal records and e-mails, e.g. social arrangements, personal copies of performance reviews;
- Stocks of publications that have been superseded;
- Bookings for internal services (e.g. room hire, equipment hire);
- Notes taken during meetings where formal notes/minutes have been prepared;
- Meeting requests, acceptances and apologies;
- Corporate notices and circulars (circulated copies, i.e. not the original);
- Superseded circulation/contact lists;
- Covering/transmission documents such as covering letters, fax cover sheets, compliment slips, or e-mails accompanying attachments that do not provide additional information to the main document and where evidence of date and time of receipt or despatch are not required;
- Reservations and confirmations of arrangements with third parties, such as joining instructions for conferences, training etc when invoices have been received.

Document Management

The 6 FE Colleges declare that they will take measures to ensure that the records which they create will be physically well maintained and cared for while they are in their custody, i.e. until either destroyed or permanently preserved by the College or PRONI.

Electronic Documents/Material

The FE Colleges do not currently have an electronic document and records management system (EDRMS) which would enable the control, retention and transfer of records in electronic format.

The principles governing the retention of electronic documents are the same as those for paper records. In support of these principles, it is important that electronic folders should be organised in a similar way as paper records. In addition, ephemeral electronic documents of no enduring value, such as those of purely personal relevance, should be deleted from the system at the earliest opportunity.

CATEGORIES OF RETENTION/DISPOSAL

There are three broad categories of retention/disposal

(a) Permanent Retention by the College (R)

There are likely to be few records in this category but these are records which the College needs to retain permanently for business administrative needs.

(b) Destroy (D)

These are records which the College will retain in archive for a defined period and which will be destroyed at the end of that period. The College will adhere to the Lord Chancellor's Code Of Practice On The Management Of Records Under Section 46 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

(c) Transfer (T)

These are records e.g. European Funded Programmes which will be archived and returned to funder when the programme has closed.

(d) Public Record Office Permanent Preservation (RP)

These are files/records which PRONI has decided are of long-term historical research value. These records must be transferred to PRONI under the terms of the Public Records Act (NI) 1923.

OPERATION OF THIS RETENTION AND DISPOSAL SCHEDULE

Retention periods

Retention periods are based upon the specific business needs of the Colleges in addition to the regulatory environment within which the College operates. The retention period for each type of file is calculated from the point the file is closed.

Destruction

Destruction of files will take place on a planned basis in line with the retention and disposal schedule recommendations. Destruction will be conducted by staff responsible for the maintenance of registered file systems, in consultation with the relevant business area. A record of destruction will be kept for audit purposes and all files will be destroyed in line with the arrangements for the destruction of confidential waste.

CONTENT OF THE SCHEDULE

The Schedule is arranged first by function and then by activity.

- the description of the activity;
- examples of common records and a recommended retention period for records.

The Schedule lists Functions and Activities and suggests minimum retention periods for the records which are generated by these functions and activities. Where applicable it also sets out minimum retention periods required by regulatory authorities.

Where there is no required retention period, a period is recommended. The Schedule also indicates functions and activities which are likely to generate records which should be preserved as historical archives, in accordance with the Criteria for Selection of Archival Records, by recommending a retention period of "Permanent" (R) or (RP).

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Chief Executive

The Chief Executive of each College is responsible for ensuring that the College complies with legislative requirements relating to records management, the Data Protection Act (1998) and the Freedom of Information Act (2000). His/her principal role is to ensure that the College policy is adhered to.

Directors

Each Director is responsible for the management of records within his/her Department and for the application of the policy within his/her operational units.

Heads of Departments and Senior Managers

All managers in the College are accountable to their supervising managers for ensuring that all information and records systems within their operational responsibilities comply with the policy statement and guidelines. They are also responsible for ensuring that guidelines and records management procedures are maintained for their operational units and communicated to employees. The College Information Officer can provide guidance and assistance on these issues.

Employees

All employees are accountable to their line managers for compliance with this schedule.

FE Sector Information Working Group

The role of this group, reporting to the Directors' Working Group, is to review generally the Sector Schedule and its obligations under the legislation.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

1. 'Retention Periods' are expressed in the Schedule as follows:
Creation date + number of years (unless otherwise stated)
For example:
  - a) Settlement of claim + 6
  - b) CFY + 2

2. Numbers represent years unless otherwise stated.

3. The starting point is frequently expressed by a code. The codes used are:
  - a) C            Creation date
  - b) CAY        Current Academic Year
  - c) CFY        Current Financial Year
  - d) CTY        Current Tax Year
  - e) ACT        Record subject to on-going update and review. These are records requiring on-going appraisal. They are appraised by College staff at specified periods to determine if there is a continuing business need for retention. These records will be destroyed if considered to be of no further business use.
